Daniel R. Mishell Jr., MD, Outstanding Article Award 2018

The Daniel R. Mishell Jr., MD Outstanding Article Award honors the principal investigators who have published the most outstanding articles in Contraception over the preceding academic year (July to June).

The selection committee, composed of the Editor, Deputy Editors and representatives of the Editorial Board of Contraception, reviewed the manuscripts published from July 2017 through June 2018. The selection committee picked three papers most deserving of this award. These articles included high-quality methodology, an excellent presentation of results, and a discussion that showed an exceptional understanding of the impact of the article relative to other literature and, when relevant, clinical practice. Accordingly, these articles from the past academic year will likely have high impact in the field of family planning for years to come.

The awards were presented in October 2018 at the North American Forum on Family Planning, the annual meeting of the Society of Family Planning, Planned Parenthood Federation of America and the Association of Reproductive Health Professionals. The selection committee chose three awardees, as follows:

1. Gavin L, Frederiksen B, Robbins C, Pazol K, Moskosky S. New clinical performance measure for contraceptive care and importance for healthcare quality. Contraception. 2017 Sep;96(3):149-157.
2. Hubacher D, Spector H, Monteith C, Chen PL. Not seeking yet trying long-acting reversible contraception: a 24-month randomized trial on continuation, unintended pregnancy and satisfaction. Contraception. 2018 Jun;97(6):524-532.
3. Taylor D, Upadhyay UD, Fjerstad M, Battistelli MF, Weitz TA, Paul ME. Standardizing the classification of abortion incidents: the Procedural Abortion Incident Reporting and Surveillance (PAIRS) Framework. Contraception. 2017 Jul;96(1):1-13.

On behalf of the selection committee, as well as the entire editorial board of Contraception, we congratulate these recipients of the Daniel R. Mishell Jr., MD, Outstanding Article Award. Contraception is an international reproductive health journal which continues to be the pre-eminent resource for scientific publications related to family planning. Contraception is the official journal of the Association of Reproductive Health Professionals and the Society of Family Planning.
